CLINTON MANGES
Chairman of the Board

Armed with a commitment to bring quality professional football to San Antonio and the South Texas area, rancher and oil man Clinton Manges added "sports entrepreneur" to his business portfolio when he was granted a U.S.F.L. franchise in July, 1983.

Manges is a colorful and often controversial individual, cut from the mold of the early Texans, with a spirit and determination that breeds success and accomplishment. Born in Cement, Oklahoma, he has lived in South Texas since his early childhood. The consummate, "self-made man," he picked cotton with his family as a child, and at age 11, worked on a shrimp boat at Port Aransas. While Manges was employed at a South Texas gas station, Lloyd Bentsen, Sr., father of Senator Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., took the young man under his wing and tutored him in the fundamentals of the real estate and oil businesses. Manges eventually parlayed that experience and opportunity into a thriving corporate empire.

operations in Texas, and prosperous oil and gas interests. He and his wife, Ruth, reside on their 100,000-acre ranch near Freer, 100 miles south of San Antonio. The expansive, rolling spread, one of several owned by Manges, abounds with native wildlife and game. In addition, Manges raises registered Brahman cattle and large herd of Texas Longhorns.

Clinton and Ruth Manges are the parents of four children, Barbara Manges Cole, Clinton, Jr., Ruthie and Malou.

Always a great sports enthusiast, Manges has been involved in all levels from Little League and up. Now, his perseverance and devotion have led him to the realization of a life-long dream with the San Antonio Gunslingers.

M. W. "BUD" HAUN
President

M. W. "Bud" Haun, president of South Texas Sports Inc. and the San Antonio Gunslingers, has long been recognized as one of South Texas' most outstanding businessmen.

Born in Lockhart, Texas, Haun's career in the banking profession spanned twenty years, including positions as president and chairman of the board of First National Bank in Yorktown, Texas, chairman of the board of First State Bank of Rio Grande City, and president and chairman of the board of San Antonio's Groos National Bank. Prior to that time he had headed up the agriculture department at Yorktown High School. Haun has been an associate of Gunslingers' owner Clinton Manges for more than a decade, serving as president of the Clinton Manges Oil and Refining Company, and general manager of Manges' ranching interests.

Haun graduated from Texas A&I University with a degree in agriculture and business administration. There he was a classmate of Gil Steinke, the Gunslingers' director of football operations.

Haun is married to the former Claudia Lee Duderstadt, and they have one daughter, Sherri Jill Lee, who is married to Bob Lee. The Hauns are the proud grandparents of Claude and Shannon.

ROGER GILL
General Manager

Professional football has been General Manager Roger Gill's life for the past twenty years.

After graduating from Texas Tech University in 1963, Gill began his pro career as a running back with the Philadelphia Eagles. The native San Antonian came back home in 1967 and signed with this city's first professional football team, the San Antonio Toros of the Continental Football League. Gill later became general manager of that team, and held front office positions with the San Antonio Wings of the World Football League, and the San Antonio Bulls of the American Football Association. Before becoming a part of the birth of the Gunslingers as general manager, he was commissioner of the A.F.A. also.

While attending Texas Tech, Gill was the recipient of the Southwest Conference Achievement Award for academic excellence and athletic leadership. He obtained his master's degree from Southwest Texas State University.

Gill, 43, and his wife, Joy, are the parents of four children.

TOM AIKEN
Director of Marketing

Marketing Director Tom Aiken came to the Gunslingers after a successful sales and marketing career in the data processing and major appliance industries.

Aiken, originally from Chattanooga, Tennessee, attended Georgia Tech University on a football scholarship. He obtained his bachelor's degree in business administration at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

Ticket sales, television and radio sales and commitments, and corporate sponsorships are among Aiken's responsibilities with the Gunslingers.

The 41-year-old Aiken is married to the former Joyce Wheeless of Bloomington, Texas. He has one daughter, Lisa, 21, who lives in Tennessee.

LES SINGLETON
Public Relations Director

After a successful, award-winning career in marketing and customer relations, Les Singleton joined the Gunslingers as public relations director this year.

Singleton, 28, produced the Gunslinger halftimes and special events last year as co-owner of the Renaissance Agency. His production experience has also included the Johnny Cash road show, and pageants for the Miss U.S.A. system.

He is a life-long resident of San Antonio, attending college in the Alamo City also.

Singleton's wife, Bambi, is a former Miss Texas finalist, and directs the San Antonio Roses, cheerleaders for the Gunslingers.

GREG SINGLETON
Media Relation Director

As media relations director, native San Antonian Greg Singleton brings to the Gunslingers a varied background and experience.

After studying law at St. Mary's University, Singleton, 32, was in the ministry for six years. In 1980, he established a public relations and advertising firm, and then joined with his brother, Les, in ownership of the Renaissance Agency in 1983. The agency was responsible for producing the Gunslingers' halftime shows and special events in 1984.

Singleton is also a singer, having performed in concert with such artists as the Oak Ridge Boys, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers, and Andrae Crouch.

He is married to the former Martha McMullan of Pampa, Texas, and they are the parents of a daughter, Anne, age four, and a son, Matt, age one.

RICHARD GIBERSON
Facilities Director

As facilities director, Richard Giberson has been responsible for, among many other areas, the supervision of the transformation of Alamo Stadium into a picturesque professional facility.

His prior involvement with his father in real estate management afforded him with the experience in maintenance and contracting to admirably accomplish his duties.

Giberson is originally from Buda, Texas. He attended Southwest Texas State University, receiving a bachelor of science degree. He also obtained a master's in education at Southwest Texas, during which time he taught courses in the department of technology there.

MIKE SCHAEFER
Ticket Manager

Ticket manager Mike Schaefer begins his second season of coordinating all Gunslinger ticket sales.

Schaefer was born in St. Mary's, Pennsylvania, but his family moved to Houston in 1976, and he began attending Spring High School. In 1979, Schaefer was a centerfielder on the Spring baseball team that won the state championship.

A stint in the Air Force brought him to San Antonio, where, after his service was completed, he attended the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Schaefer is twenty-four years old and is single.

O. P. CARRILLO
Vice President of Personnel

A native of Benevides, Texas, O.P. Carrillo, former district judge, is the organization's vice-president of personnel.

The sixty-year-old Carrillo received his bachelor's degree at the University of Texas and bachelor of laws and doctor of laws degrees from San Antonio's St. Mary's University.

He was associate of former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas in a law practice. While a law partner with Percy Foreman, he served as best man in the wedding of the flamboyant Houston attorney.

Since 1960, Carrillo has been associated in banking, ranching and insurance businesses with Gunslinger owner Clinton Manges.

JIM BATES
Head Coach

A jubilant "high-five", stirring enthusiasm within players and fans alike, became the trademark of Coach Jim Bates last season, as he rewarded his defensive charges for a mission accomplished.

Bates brings his motivational style to the Gunslingers' head coaching post in 1985, along with an impressive history of past successes.

As San Antonio's defensive coordinator in 1984, he fashioned the "Bounty Hunters" into a devastating fraternity that equalled or eclipsed several U.S.F.L. marks, including most team interceptions (31), most shutouts (2), and most non-offense touchdowns (8). The stingy defense was fourth in the U.S.F.L. in scoring defense last year.

Prior to joining the Gunslingers in 1984, Bates served at Texas Tech University for six seasons, four as defensive coordinator. There, he developed consistently rugged units, characterized by their hard-hitting and enthusiasm. Among his former Red Raider pupils who are now performing in the pro ranks are Tate Randle (Indianapolis Colts), Ted Watts (Los Angeles Raiders), Stan David (Buffalo Bills), and Larry Flowers (New York Giants).

Bates began his coaching career in 1968 as a graduate assistant at the University of Tennessee. He took over the head coaching position at Sevier County High School in Sevierville, Tennessee, in 1969, and built the program into a winner during his three-year tenure there. Bates' other stops included freshman coach at Southern Mississippi University (1972), two years (1973-1974) at Villanova as offensive line coach, then as defensive end and linebacker coach, two years (1975-1976) as defensive end coach at Kansas State, and one year (1977) at West Virginia University directing the secondary.

After an outstanding high school career at Oxford, Michigan, Bates walked on at the University of Tennessee, and earned a scholarship with his aggressive, "blue-collar" style of play. He lettered at linebacker for two years, and during his playing days there (1976-1967), the Volunteers appeared in the Bluebonnet, Gator, and Orange Bowls. In touting Bates, the Tennessee media guide said "determination and hustle have helped make him one of the grittiest Vols." His cohorts in the Tennessee linebacker crew included such standouts as Jack "Hacksaw" Reynolds, Steve Kiner, Paul Naumoff, and Frank Emanuel.

Bates established a genuine rapport with the Gunslinger players in 1984. His infectious enthusiasm had an indelible effect on the defensive unit, and, as the season progressed, the entire team. All-U.S.F.L. safety Peter Raeford was one who was suitably impressed with Bates. "He's such an exciting person to be around," effused Raeford. "Sometimes, I just sit back and watch him, and he always gives a little extra to each player. That makes you want to give a little extra back. He makes you feel like you're the best, and that sure gives you confidence. One thing about Coach Bates —he'll always get the job done."

Bates expressed high-pitched anticipation about San Antonio's 1985 season. "We have greatly upgraded our team during the off-season, especially through the dispersal draft," he informed. "We're not naive to the fact that the rest of the league is much improved, also. But, we feel that we'll be able to compete with all the fine teams in this league."

Bates is married to the former Joyce Radtke of Rochester, New York. The couple has two children, Jamie, 11, and Jeremy, 8.

TOM ROSSLEY
Offensive Coordinator

Preceded by his reputation as an advocate of a wide-open style of football, Tom Rossley mans the post of offensive coordinator for the Gunslingers in 1985.

Prior to coming to San Antonio in November, the 38-year-old Rossley directed the attack for the Montreal Concorde of the Canadian Football League. He began his tenure there in 1982, as the Montreal franchise was restructured from the foundation up. He built an aggressive offensive corps that led the Concorde to the 1984 C.F.L. playoffs, a remarkable feat for a third-year franchise. With that youthful, inexperienced unit at his disposal, Rossley fashioned a balanced attack that spread the defenses and enabled the Concorde to successfully execute his offensive style.

The University of Cincinnati recruited the young quarterback at the same time that they signed one of the nation's top quarterback recruits, Greg Cook. Cook later became a consensus All-American and a first-found pick of the Cincinnati Bengals. After two years as Cook's back up, University of Cincinnati head coach Homer Rice moved Rossley to wide receiver. He responded by becoming Cook's favorite receiver, snaring 80 passes to rank second in the nation in 1968. He garnered All-American honors, and played in the Blue-Gray Classic and the Senior Bowl Game.

After a brief stint as a wide receiver for the Philadelphia Eagles, Rossley launched his coaching career near his Ohio hometown at Eastlake North High School. In two seasons there, he simply built upon an already solid winning tradition.

In 1972, he became a graduate assistant coach under the legendary Frank Broyles at Arkansas, and gained valuable experience along side two current N.F.L. mentors, Joe Gibbs and Ray Berry, who were assistants on that Razorback squad.

He returned to high school coaching in West Palm Beach, Florida for three years, and then his former college coach, Homer Rice, beckoned Rossley to Rice University in 1976. With Rossley coaching the receivers, Rice fashioned one of the most prolific passing attacks in Southwest Conference history, directed by quarterback Tommy Kramer.

After a one-year return to his alma mater, Rossley arrived back at Rice. There, he remained through 1979 as quarterback coach, and in 1980 was appointed offensive coordinator. In his two years directing the attack, the Owls won nine games, their finest record since the early sixties. Rossley then began his tenure at Montreal.

Rossley brings to the Gunslingers a plan for "solid consistency in moving the ball."

"The big plays take care of themselves—they'll happen," said Rossley. "Our main goal is a consistent balanced attack."

Rossley and his wife, Kris, have two sons, Max, 14, and Mickey, 12, and a daughter, Kristi, 1½.

TIM MARCUM
Defensive Coordinator

Before coming to the Gunslingers in 1984, Tim Marcum had established himself at the summit of his profession at each level of the coaching ladder.

For ten years, Marcum consistently helped to build winning traditions in the highly competitive Texas high schools. At Duncanville, Levelland, Lamesa, and San Antonio MacArthur, he helped develop successful and productive programs.

In 1976, Marcum joined the coaching staff of Ranger Junior College in Ranger, Texas. He assumed the head coaching duties in 1978, and during a two-year tenure, his teams compiled a 20-1 record. Marcum led the 1979 Ranger squad to the National Junior College Championship with an undefeated season, and was named National Junior College Coach of the Year.

Marcum was appointed defensive secondary coach at Rice University in 1980. He served under Coach Ray Alborn there until 1984.

Last season, Marcum took on the responsibilities of defensive assistant in the Gunslingers' initial year. He had specific leadership over the head-hunting linebackers, that characterized San Antonio's opportunistic defensive unit.

Marcum heads up the team's defensive unit this year, ably filling the position vacated when Jim Bates was appointed head coach. "We want to continue along the same lines with this year's defense," said Marcum. "We've developed a tradition with the 'Bounty Hunters'."

The Snyder, Texas native was a quarterback under Coach Grant Teaff at McMurry College in Abilene. Marcum's father had coached Teaff at McMurry several years before.

The 40-year-old Marcum received his master's degree from Texas Tech. He has two daughters, Michelle, 17, and Mitzi, 13.

TOMMY ROBERTS
Running Backs

Steadiness and dependability were the trademarks of the Gunslinger running backs in 1984, led by Coach Tommy Roberts. Roberts' charges eclipsed U.S.F.L. records in fumbling only five times and losing just three. That astonishingly low number reflected Coach Roberts' emphasis on solid, fundamental football, a tenet that he brought to San Antonio from 16 outstanding years coaching in Texas high schools.

Roberts, Coach of the Year once in South Texas, once in Central Texas, and twice in the Rio Grande Valley, posted a career mark of 130-35-4. He led teams at Round Rock, Freer, and Port Isabel to a total of nine district championships and four trips to the state playoffs. At Port Isabel in 1981, Roberts led his team to the state semifinals, and was nominated to coach the South squad in the annual North-South Texas High School All-Star game.

Among the numerous standout players he coached are three who now perform in the professional ranks—Bill Acker of the Buffalo Bills, Steve McMichael of the Chicago Bears, and the Houston Gamblers' Donnie Martin.

A 1962 graduate of Southwest Texas State University, Roberts was born in Leander, Texas. His wife, Joyce, is a twirling and dance teacher, and also a model. They have two children, Terry, 21, a former All-State fullback and linebacker, and Tammy, 20, both of whom are students at Texas A&I.

CHARLIE BUTLER
Offensive Line

Charlie Butler is the San Antonio Gunslingers offensive line coach in 1985 after occupying the same position last season with the U.S.F.L.'s Oklahoma Outlaws.

Butler brings to the Gunslingers 23 years of coaching experience on the high school, college and professional levels, and a reputation as having a versatile and innovative football mind.

The 47-year-old Butler is a native of Hartsville, Tennessee, and starred at offensive guard for Middle Tennessee State University from 1957 through 1960. During his junior season, he performed with the Blue Raiders in the Tangerine Bowl, as they completed a 10-0-1 season.

Butler's first coaching position was a Hendersonville (Tennessee) High School, first as an assistant, and in 1962 through 1966, as head coach. During his tenure, he led his squads to two playoff seasons, and, in 1964, was named Coach of the Year.

Butler returned to Middle Tennessee State in 1966 as a graduate assistant while obtaining his master's degree, and remained there as the offensive coordinator until 1972. He directed the offensive line at Colorado State for a season before moving to Michigan State to fulfill the same responsibilities. There, under Head Coach Denny Stolz, Butler established himself in the forefront of his profession during his four-year tenure.

In 1977, Butler began a three-year stint as assistant head football coach at Bowling Green University. He then served as offensive coordinator at Memphis State in 1980 and 1981.

Immediately prior to his work with the Outlaws, Butler coached the offensive line at L.S.U. The Tigers appeared in the 1983 Orange Bowl Classic, and Butler's charges were instrumental in the team's success.

He is in demand as a speaker at major football clinics throughout the country. In addition, Butler co-authored the book Offensive and Defensive Line Play, and is under contract with Allyn and Bacon Publishing, Inc., to pen more books on line play techniques and strategy.

Butler and his wife, Mary, have two sons, Rick and John, and a daughter, Mary.

BILL BRADLEY
Defensive Backs

Former All-Pro safety Bill Bradley imparts a wealth of knowledge and experience to the defensive secondary of the San Antonio Gunslingers. In his first venture into coaching, Bradley's defensive backs meshed with the rest of the "Bounty Hunters" to produce a record-setting 31 interceptions.

Tagged "Super Bill" Bradley as an All-State quarterback at Palestine, Texas High School, he selected the University of Texas from among hundreds of colleges that sought his talents. In 1984, Bradley was inducted into the Texas High School Football Hall of Fame in honor of his illustrious career. He was also drafted by the Detroit Tigers in the third round of the baseball draft as a high school senior. Bradley was moved to the secondary for the Longhorns during his senior season, and was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles of the N.F.L.

With the Eagles, Bradley was a three-time All-Pro selection, and led the league in interceptions in 1971 and 1972, to become the first player in N.F.L. history to lead the league for two consecutive years. Only Everson Walls of the Dallas Cowboys has since matched Bradley's two-year reign as interception leader.

He retired in 1977 and became a co-partner of Sports Management, Inc., an agency representing professional athletes.

Bradley, born January 24, 1947, is single.

DAVID KNAUS
Defensive Line

David Knaus, a native San Antonian, returned to his hometown in 1984 to become the Gunslingers' defensive line coach.

After a stellar career at Churchill High School where he was named All-District and All-City in 1970, Knaus selected Texas Tech from a number of colleges offering him scholarships.

At Tech, he was a two-year starter at nose guard, and was named to the All-Southwest Conference freshman team and the All-Conference squad his junior year. The Associated Press named him honorable mention All-American also in 1973. He missed most of his senior season (1974) with an injury, but was able to come back to play in the Peach Bowl and the Kodak All-American game. While Knaus played at Tech, the Red Raiders also appeared in the Sun Bowl and Gator Bowl.

Knaus served as a graduate assistant at Tech under Steve Sloan in 1975 and 1976, then became defensive line coach at Wyoming University for three years. In 1980, he returned to Lubbock to assist the late Rex Dockery as Texas Tech's defensive line coach. He remained at Tech when Jerry Moore became head coach, directing the linebackers. Gunslinger head coach Jim Bates was defensive coordinator for the Raiders during that time.

Knaus, who received his master's in education from Tech, and his wife, Jannese, have a son, Christopher Stephen, age three.

HARRY LANDER
Offensive Assistant

"I just can't get it out of my blood," stated Harry Lander, after leaving several very successful business ventures to return to coaching as an offensive assistant with San Antonio in 1985.

In eighteen years of head coaching in the high school and pro levels, Lander has amassed an 82% win percentage.

After 11 years of phenomenal coaching successes in Texas high schools, he became director of football operations for the World Football League's San Antonio Wings.

Upon the W.F.L.'s demise, Lander co-founded the American Football Association with Gunslinger General Manager Roger Gill. He coached four of the league's entries during his five-year tenure, and served in various administrative capacities with the league.

Lander returned to coaching at Georgetown High School in 1980, and in two years, the school won district and state quarterfinal championships.

Lander and his wife, Bettye, boast of seven grandchildren. He remains a general partner with his sons in real estate and financial planning companies.

TOM EVEREST
Defensive Assistant

After 13 years of successful coaching on the high school level, defensive assistant Tom Everest employs his expertise with the San Antonio Gunslingers in 1985.

Everest who was born in Marlin, Texas, was a three-year starter at Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo in football and baseball.

After gaining his initial experience as a graduate assistant at the University of Colorado, Everest coached the linebackers in 1971 and 1972 at the University of California-Santa Barbara.

Prior to coming to the Gunslingers this year, he guided successful high school programs in Santa Barbara, California (six years) and Lewisville, Texas (seven years).

Everest, the son of New Orleans Saints coach Andy Everest, and his wife, Joan, have two children, Erin, 14, and Ryan, 11.

GIL STEINKE
Vice President of Football Operations

In 1984, Gil Steinke enhanced his reputation as one of the country's outstanding football mentors, as he molded the San Antonio expansion franchise into a highly competitive force in the U.S.F.L. Steinke hands the coaching reins to Jim Bates this year, and assumes the responsibility of director of football operations for the Gunslingers.

Steinke's legendary career at Texas A&I University earned him a place in the Texas Sports Hall of Fame. In his 23-year career at the Kingsville university, he compiled a 182-61-4 record, including five undefeated seasons, ten Lone Star Conference championships, and an amazing total of six N.A.I.A. national championships. In 1976, Steinke concluded his tenure at A&I with a streak of 39 consecutive victories and three consecutive national championships. He was named N.A.I.A. Coach of the Year four times, Lone Star Conference Coach of the Decade, and was inducted into the N.A.I.A. and Texas A&I Halls of Fame.

Steinke, a Ganado, Texas native, was a star running back at A&I. While with the Javelinas, he led the team in rushing for three consecutive seasons, and in 1941, his senior season, he averaged 105 yards rushing per game, second best in the nation that year.

The Philadephia Eagles signed Steinke out of A&I, but a stint in the Navy during World War II interrupted his professional career. He returned to the Eagles after his tour of duty, and stepped in at starting defensive back. He led the N.F.L. in punt returns (14.7 yard average) in 1947, while also topping the Eagles in interceptions.

Steinke took his first coaching job at Trinity University in San Antonio in 1948. He became freshman coach at Oklahoma A&M in 1949, then moved to Texas A&M as assistant coach for four years. In 1954, he accepted the head coaching post at Texas A&I, and by 1959, had turned a dying program into the infancy of a national small college powerhouse.

Retired from coaching since 1976, Steinke heeded the urging of longtime acquaintance Clinton Manges, and accepted the challenge of launching the Gunslingers into their initial venture last year. In 1985, Steinke appropriates his shrewd eye for evaluating talent and uncanny ability of building winners to the Gunslingers' front office.

Steinke and his wife, Mary, have been married 39 years. They have twin sons, Leslie and Larry, and a daughter, Jan.

BILLY SCHOTT
Equipment Manager
Special Assistant

Billy Schott adds a wealth of varied experience to the San Antonio organization. The Austin native serves for the second year as equipment manager, but has occasionally been called upon to assist in scouting, player evaluation, and special team coaching, also.

Known as Billy "Sure" Schott in his playing days, he was an All-American placekicker on the Austin Reagan High School teams that won two state championships. He played under Darrell Royal at the University of Texas, and still holds several Longhorn kicking records.

"I've been in more pro camps than Gatorade," quips Schott concerning his professional football career. He was a placekicker for the Los Angeles Rams and Houston Oilers before earning tryouts in several other N.F.L. camps.

Schott's coaching career began when he served under Royal at Texas and Jim Wacker at Southwest Texas State as a student assistant. He was head coach and athletic director at Jarrell (Texas) High School. Schott served as an administrative aide for Coach Bum Phillips with the Houston Oilers. He was a player-coach with the Austin Texans of the American Football Association also.

Schott is 32 years old and is single.

After graduating from A&I, Oakley was head athletic trainer at Alice High School and Beeville High School.

A member of the National Athletic Trainer's Association, he was the trainer for Texas Special Olympics, and is called upon to lecture at various seminars and clinics.

Oakley, 25, is married to the former Gwen Jenks, an ex-Academic All-American basketball star for Texas A&I's women's squad.

San Antonio Gunslingers
1984 IN REVIEW

In their first venture into United States Football League shootouts, the San Antonio Gunslingers fielded a fiercely competitive squad that served notice on the rest of the league that they were taking aim on the top. The Gunslingers' 1984 edition compiled the second best record (7-11) among the league's expansion teams, after being discounted by some pre-season prognosticators as having little chance to win a single game. They equaled or eclipsed six league records, including most interceptions (31) and most shutouts (2) by the relentless "Bounty Hunter" defense, engineered by defensive coordinator Jim Bates. The steady offense set U.S.F.L. marks for fewest fumbles (18) and fewest fumbles lost (9) in a season.

Head coach Gil Steinke's leadership inspired the Gunslingers to produce one of the most exciting packages in pro football.

After a laborious controversy concerning the contractual terms of the Alamo Stadium lease was decided in their favor, the Gunslingers brought their sure-fire brand of football to the Alamo City.

Sunday, February 26 - San Antonio vs. New Orleans

The Gunslingers made their U.S.F.L. debut at home, on a breezy Sunday afternoon against the New Orleans Breakers. A stern defensive battle ensued, with the highlight being San Antonio cornerback Peter Raeford's second-quarter fumble return for a 20-yard touchdown. With 10:39 left in the fourth quarter, the Breakers' Johnnie Walton hit wide receiver Frank Lockett with a 40-yard touchdown strike to make the score 13-10, New Orleans. The Gunslingers mounted a late drive into the stiff wind. After a pass in to the end zone fell off the fingertips of tight end Joey Hackett, the gusty wind played havoc with Nick Mike-Mayer's 34-yard field goal attempt. The kick, apparently on target, was blown wide to the right and short, sealing a Breaker victory.

Monday, March 5 - San Antonio vs. Houston

Week two brought the neighbors from Houston into Alamo Stadium for a game televised by E.S.P.N. The Gunslingers struck first with a 76-yard touchdown pass from Rick Neuheisel to Lonell Phea. Things suddenly made a turn for the worse for San Antonio, tough, with Gamblers' rookie quarterback Jim Kelly executing the run-and-shoot offense to perfection, throwing for 309 yards and leading Houston to a 35-7 victory.

Sunday, March 11 - San Antonio vs. Oklahoma

Once again, the defenses controlled the game as the Gunslingers dropped their third straight game to the Oklahoma Outlaws, 14-7 in Tulsa. San Antonio played the game without starting quarterback Rick Neuheisel who had been injured in the Houston game. Back-up quarterbacks Mike Ford and Karl Douglas could not generate the offensive attack, hitting on only 17 of 45 passes.

Saturday, March 17 - San Antonio vs. Los Angeles

The Los Angeles Express came from behind with two Tony Zendejas field goals in the fourth quarter to edge San Antonio 13-12 at Alamo Stadium. The Gunslingers, sparked by a 35-yard interception return for a touchdown by linebacker Putt Choate, led 12-10 until

San Antonio Gunslingers

Zendejas' 39-yarder with 1:09 remaining in the game gave the Express the win.

Saturday, March 24 - San Antonio vs. Oakland

The first victory is always sweet, and so it was as the Gunslingers brought their record to 1-4 by defeating the Oakland Invaders 14-10 at Alamo Stadium. San Antonio's balanced offensive attack was capped by Al Penn-White's one-yard blast to give them the lead with 1:22 left in the game.

Sunday, April - San Antonio vs. Michigan

The Gunslingers, hitting only 33 percent of their passes and totalling only 79 yards total offense, managed to stay within striking distance until the fourth quarter before falling to the Michigan Panthers, 26-10. The loss at the Pontiac Silverdome dropped San Antonio's record to 1-5. The bright spot for the Gunslingers was their bend-but-not-break defense, highlighted by John Barefield's 27-yard interception return for a touchdown.

Saturday, April 7 - San Antonio vs. Chicago

In Chicago, the Blitz mounted a 64-yard drive, scoring on an eight-yard Vince Evans-to-Kris Haines toss, to give them a 16-10 overtime victory over San Antonio. The Gunslingers had tied the score early in the fourth quarter with a 12-yard scoring pass from Neuheisel to Glenn Starks.

Saturday, April 14 - San Antonio vs. Jacksonville

The Gunslingers combined superb efforts by the offense and defense to shut out the Jacksonville Bulls in Florida, 20-0. Amassing 323 total yards, and keyed by Scott Stamper's 96 yards rushing, the offensive unit moved the ball well on the ground (197 yards) and in the air (126 yards). The "Bounty Hunter" defense caused four turnovers in holding the Bulls scoreless. San Antonio ran their record to 2-6.

Sunday, April 22 - San Antonio vs. Philadelphia

The Philadelphia Stars, who would eventually become the 1984 U.S.F.L. champions, held off a frantic San Antonio comeback to post a 20-14 win on Easter Sunday at Alamo Stadium. The Stars seemingly had things under control when David Trout hit a 45-yard field goal in the waning seconds of the third quarter to give them a 20-7 advantage. The Gunslingers answered, though, with a one-yard touchdown plunge by Stamper, who finished the game with 78 yards on 11 carries. Starting from their own 22 with 1:31 remaining in the game, the Gunslingers drove deep into Philadelphia territory. The drive was ended with 12 seconds left, when Neuheisel's pass was picked off by Stars' cornerback Bill Hardee.

Saturday, April 28 - San Antonio vs. Arizona

Entering the game a 12-point underdog, San Antonio shocked the Arizona Wranglers at Sun Devil Stadium by the score of 24-23. The Gunslingers relied on big plays to raise their record to 3-7. Rick Neuheisel returned to his hometown and promptly hit Glenn Starks with a 40-yard scoring strike, and Peter Raeford intercepted an Alan Risher pass and returned it 53 yards for a touchdown to give San Antonio an early 14-0 lead. Mike Ulmer opened the fourth quarter with a 60-yard punt return for a touchdown, also. Neuheisel threw for 310 yards to lead San Antonio to the win.

Sunday, May 6 - San Antonio vs. Chicago

The Gunslingers picked up their fourth win of the season with a 30-21 verdict

San Antonio Gunslingers

over the Chicago Blitz at Alamo Stadium. San Antonio was in control early, jumping out to a 17-0 lead. The Blitz, however, fought back, and trailed by only two with 32 seconds left in the contest. The Gunslingers then foiled an onside kick attept when Raeford scooped up the ball and scampered for a 45-yard touchdown to seal the victory. Once again, San Antonio combined a balanced attack (158 rushing and 181 yards passing) and the feats of the opportunistic "Bounty Hunters" (three interceptions, including Greg Fields' 36-yard touchdown return of a theft) to overcome Chicago.

Friday, May 11 - San Antonio vs. Memphis

The Gunslingers glimmer of playoff hopes was extinguished by a Walter Lewis rampage as the Memphis Showboats stung San Antonio 38-14 on the road. Five touchdown passes and a 67 per-cent completion average by the rookie quarterback spurred Memphis to the decisive win. The setback gave the Gunslingers a 4-8 record.

Sunday, May 20 - San Antonio vs. Washington

San Antonio got back into the win column in Washington, as they whipped the Federals 30-14. Rick Neuheisel passed for 213 yards and George Works (71 yards), Marcus Bonner (59), and Mike Hagen (53) combined for 183 of the Gunslingers 220 rushing yards to lead the potent offense.

Friday, May 25 - San Antonio vs. Denver

Denver quarterback Fred Mortensen hit 19 of 27 passes for 308 yards and two touchdowns to hold off the Gunslingers 27-20 in a very warm Alamo Stadium. After San Antonio fought back to tie the score at 20-20 late in the fourth quarter, Mortensen, under heavy pressure, hit Dave Preston with a 32-yard touch down toss. The Gunslingers, whose record fell to 5-9, were led by Works' two touchdown plunges.

Friday, June 1 - San Antonio vs. Michigan

The defending champion Michigan Panthers came to town, and left with a narrow 23-17 overtime victory. The Panthers scored with 46 seconds remaining in the final quarter to knot the score at 17 each. Neuheisel directed a valiant drive in the closing seconds to set up Nick Mike-Mayer's 58-yard field goal attempt. The kick was on target, but fell just under the crossbar. On the Gunslingers first offensive series of the overtime period, Michigan cornerback Oliver Davis intercepted a Neuheisel pass and returned it 27 yards for a touchdown. The San Antonio defense held Michigan scoreless in the first half, a first for the Panthers in 1984.

Monday, June 11 - San Antonio vs. Pittsburgh

San Antonio stretched their record to 6-10 by whipping the Pittsburgh Maulers 21-3. in a game nationally televised on ESPN from Pittsburgh. Neuheisel and swift wide receiver Jerry Gordon combined for touchdown passes of 12 and 21 yards, and the "Bounty Hunters" caused four Mauler turnovers to lead the Gunslingers to a solid victory.

Monday, June 18 - San Antonio vs. Houston

In the most disheartening loss of the season, the Gunslingers met the Houston Gamblers before a large crowd at the Astrodome and a national television audience. San Antonio was in control throughout the first half, moving to a 20-7 halftime lead. An old nemesis, quarterback Jim Kelly, took charge in the second half, and finally hit slotback Ricky Saunders with a 30-yard strike with 1:10 remaining to give the Gamblers the 29-26 win. San Antonio fought back, however, and with six seconds left to play, Houston cornerback Mike Mitchell tipped away a pass intended for Danny Buggs, who was in the end zone. Mike-Mayer hit four field goals and two extra points to lead the Gunslingers' scoring.

Sunday, June 24 - San Antonio vs. Oklahoma Outlaws

A rousing pre-game concert by country music star Johnny Rodriguez, the season's largest home attendance, and an impressive 23-0 shutout of the Oklahoma Outlaws made the 1984 season's climax a colossal success. While the Gunslingers defense caused six Outlaw turnovers, Marcus Bonner rushed for two touchdowns to sew up the win. Neuheisel hit on 15 of 18 passes for an 83 per-cent completion percentage. The shutout was the second of the season for the "Bounty Hunters".

Cornerback Peter Raeford, who scored three touchdowns during the season on defense and special teams was rewarded for his consistently opportunistic style by being selected first team All-U.S.F.L. Linebacker Putt Choate was named to the second team.

Spurred by the satisfaction of achieving most of their pre-season goals, the Gunslingers closed out their initial season of U.S.F.L. action with an eager glimpse toward 1985.

1985 PLAYOFFS

RINGTHEBELL.ZZ on Archive.org

Once the regular season is completed, a total of eight teams will qualify for post-season play. The champions of each conference plus the two runners-up in each conference will qualify.

They will be joined by four wild card entrants, the teams with the best records of the remaining ten teams, regardless of the conference the teams are members of.

Playoff qualifiers will be seeded Nos. 1 through 8. The conference winner with the best record will be the top seed. The other conference winner, regardless of record, will be the second seed.

The remaining six teams will be seeded No. 3 through No. 8, using won-lost percentage and, if applicable, the League tie-breaking system. Therefore, the No. 8 seed will play at the home site of the No. 1 seed, No. 7 at No. 2, No. 6 at No. 3 and No. 5 will play at the home site of No. 4.

In the second round of the playoffs, the winner of No. 1 vs. No. 8 plays the winner of No. 4 vs. No. 5. The winner of No. 2 vs. No. 7 plays the winner of No. 3 vs. No. 6. The surviving teams with the best records will always be the host teams; however, each conference champion will have priority.

ALAMO STADIUM

Historic Alamo Stadium serves as the home of the San Antonio Gunslingers.

The stadium was built in 1939 by the W.P.A. and the San Antonio Independent School District, and has served through the years as the site of high school, college, and professional gridiron battles, band festivals, concerts, religious crusades, and numerous other events.

Football fans in Alamo Stadium have witnessed some of the most memorable contests and combatants in San Antonio and Texas football history:

- The dazzling twosome of Kyle Rote and Pat Knight, leading the Jefferson Mustangs through the state playoffs in 1949.
- Coach George "Red" Forehand's genius in turning out big winners, including a state championship at Brackenridge.
- Jefferson's Tommy Nobis and his bone-rattling tackles.
- "Wondrous" Warren McVea's incredible offensive fireworks at Brackenridge in the early sixties, including the bi-district game against Robert E. Lee. Considered the greatest game in Texas high school history, McVea's Eagles fell 55-48 despite his thrilling performance.
- The Thanksgiving Day rivalry between Jefferson and Brackenridge.
- The "Chili Bowl" that continues to draw large crowds each year as Fox Tech takes on Lanier.
- Annual high school playoff action featuring some of the finest champions in Texas schoolboy history—Jefferson, Brackenridge, Lee, Churchill, and Judson.
- The glory days of Trinity University football when the Tigers were an N.A.I.A. powerhouse.
- N.F.L. pre-season games that showcased the league's outstanding teams and performers of the forties and fifties.
- San Antonio's first ventures into pro football—the Toros of the Continental Football League, the Charros and the Bulls of the American Football Association, and the Wings of the World Football League.
- The premier season of the U.S.F.L.'s San Antonio Gunslingers.

South Texas Sports, Inc. leases Alamo Stadium from the San Antonio Independent School District. In order to accommodate professional football, South Texas Sports, Inc. has completed an initial $5 million renovation of the facility. Included in the first phase of the improvements is the expansion of the stadium to a capacity of 32,000, installation of a SuperTurf field and quality track, installation of a lighting system with television capabilities, installation of a new drainage system, renovation of the locker rooms and press box, and installation of a new scoreboard.

Alamo Stadium is located on Highway 281 South between the Hildebrand and Stadium Drive exits. It is adjacent to Trinity University and Brackenridge Park, approximately equidistant between the San Antonio International Airport and downtown San Antonio.
